PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION TUESDAY

Polls Will Open at 6 A.M. and May be Closed at 4 P.M.—
Ballots and Check Lists Posted for Inspection—
Early Returns Expected

Tuesday the voters will have an opportunity to cast their votes for a president. The polls will open at 6 a.m. and may be closed at 4 p.m., but the exact hour of closing will not be determined until Tuesday morning, by vote. It will be safe, however, for all voters to exercise their privilege before 4 o'clock, and in this way help in an early return of the results.

There is very little enthusiasm evident among the voters in town, there being no local contest. Nesbit G. Gleason has no opposition for his second term in the legislature although a paper in the interests of John Traynor was circulated and the necessary signatures secured. The party designation Democratic was not accepted and his name did not go on the ballot.

The specimen ballots have been posted in front of the Town hall and in the post-office and voters would do well to examine it as it is a rather bulky affair with its four columns. The list of candidates for the fifth Essex Senatorial district will also be found in another column of this issue of the Townsman, but all of these candidates are not on the specimen ballots as Andover does not vote for some of them.

INTERNATIONAL EVENING SCHOOL

Five Nationalities Included Among the Eight Men Who Met
Wednesday Night and Organized for Instruction in English and Citizenship

An evening school of great possibilities was organized in the School Committee room Wednesday night. For several weeks, Charles Rabinovitz and Edward Olsen have been at work interesting the men in town who have come from European countries and who have a desire for a better knowledge of the English language and American institutions and the meeting Wednesday night was the result of their efforts.

There were eight men present representing five nationalities. Mr. Henry C. Sanborn was chosen as organizer or superintendent, and Rev. J. D. Cameron, teacher. The class will meet every Monday night from 8 to 9:30 and applications for admission and membership may be made to Mr. Sanborn, superintendent of schools. It is expected that a large number of the non-English speaking men of the town will enroll and while English will be the chief study at first, the course will broaden so as to include forms of government, naturalization, arithmetic and American citizenship. While the class is primarily intended for non-English speaking men, all others interested will be cordially invited to join.

An effort will be made next week to interest the heads of the large concerns

Communication

To the Editor of The Townsman.

Sir—
As I was unable to attend the Republican Rally last Thursday evening, I read with great interest the account of it which greeted my eyes when I unfolded my Townsman on Saturday morning.

I was much struck and somewhat disheartened at the great emphasis apparently placed by all the speakers on —dollars. Had then the American spirit sunk so low that it could only be roused by an appeal to the pocket, or "the full dinner pail." It is true that an eminent gentleman has recently said that "no man could worship God on an empty stomach," and I understand that he was once a teacher of History! A great cloud of witnesses, which no man can number, rise up today to remind us that they believed in fasting as well as in prayer. More nearly is it true that it is harder to worship God on a full stomach. I was cheered on turning to the inside of the paper to read the letter of my friend and neighbor, Mr. Philip W. Thomson and, lastly,
I read the comment of the Editor on that letter. I am not unimpaired, Mr. Editor, of the seriousness of the Economic problems which await the Republican party when it returns to power, but I am sure that you and every other loyal citizen will agree with me that those problems, great as they are, are not of first importance. Not even "America First," but rather the Righteousness which exalteth a Nation
first—and all these other things according to our need shall be added unto us. To keep the highest ambition always before us will make us a strong and united Nation, for there is no divided interest then. But to dwell chiefly on the lower ambition will tend to disintegrate the Nation, for there the interests are manifold.

Thousands of young Americans are about to cast their first vote for President and it seems to me worth while that we who have lived in and loved our country for many years should set before them, as far as we are able, the highest ideal of citizenship we know,
rather than one which, however necessary, is powerless to stir their imagination or quicken that love which is Patriotism.

Gold Tried in the Fire

When the nearest neighbors and associates of the late Mrs. Mary (Rea) Blood asked me to add something to the obituary in the last issue of the Townsman, I felt that I did not know her personally well enough to do justice to this richly endowed woman. I indeed knew much of what lies back of her in the long line of ancestry from Daniel Rea of Plymouth and Salem, who sent his granddaughter here in the dreadful days of the witch trials as the second wife of my old ancestor, Joseph Ballard, widow first of Stevens who was killed at Bloody Brook in the Indian wars, next of a Marblehead mariner, Orne, and last the mother of five of Ballard's children.

Then down the long generations another
Dan Rea from Topsfield lived with us on the Hill farm of the Seminary, and three generations of his dead lie in the North Yard near to the old church there.
Jasper Rea was the son in Scotland District, who chose Lucy Woodcock of another pioneer Dedham line who defended us in the Indian wars. After they came to High street to live I often met Mary and Addie (the sister who was wife of our town clerk Putnam).

The inheritance of a strong sense of neighborly kindness passed along to the daughter, whose life history appeals so strongly to all who knew her best. Full of deeds of courage in emergencies, forgetting her own trials in lightening those of others. Till the last, with her nimble fingers making gifts for her friends and her Grange, she passed into the dark,
long subway so many of our beloved have entered as the last bitter experience, where as Garfield said, "to live is pain." Then up and out at the golden gate into the sunshine she went to the glorious resurrection "from out of the body" into eternal youth and freedom.
Let us forget the hard things that she would have us lay down with her burden.
Her children, as I read the long list, will not be here with us to lend a hand, but we have her gift to them into the out-most bounds. Many of my age recall the other grandfather, Roger Blood, whom she named one son for.
My father worked long years with him in the old shop of Abbott & Clement, he and his faithful, cross old horse carrying forth the fragrant pine boards from the buzzing saw. I caught up the tribute of Louise Alcott to her mother, read at Rev. Mr. Wilson's mother's funeral, and I will leave this word of comfort with you who still keep a mother in remembrance.

Life's gold can be refined,
And by thy art divine
Change mortal weakness to immortal power!

Bending beneath the weight of many years,
Spent with the noble strife
O a victorious life,
We watched her fading heavenward through our tears.

But ere the sense of loss our hearts had wrong,
A miracle was wrought,
And swift as happy thought
She lived again, brave, beautiful and young.

Age, pain and sorrow dropped the veils they wore,
And showed the tender eyes
Of angels in disguise,
Whose discipline so patiently she bore.

Faith that withstood the shocks of toil and time,
Hope that defied despair,
Patience that conquered care,
And Loyalty whose courage was sublime.

We thought to weep, but sing for joy instead,
Full of the grateful peace
That follows her release;
For nothing but the weary dust is dead.

BOSTON THEATRES

Election Returns

Tuesday night, November 7, by means of a direct wire, the returns from the Presidential Election will be received from all parts of the country and given to the audience between the acts at the following theatres—

PLYMOUTH

Marie Tempest will appear at the Plymouth Theatre the coming week in Cyril Harcourt's amusing comedy, "A Lady's Name," for the second and last week of her Boston engagement. All the trouble arises from the caprice of Mabel Vere, a novelist, who advertises for a husband merely to study the applicants and put them into a book. She has been engaged a long time to Gerald Vantage.
But for a year she has outgrown her love for him and come to regard him as a "habit." Two members of Vantage's club reply to the advertisement of "Miss X." These clubmen, however, are out for adventure and are sadly mistaken in their estimate of the unknown.

One Adams, a butler, is a more serious suitor and obtains an interview. So persistent is he that the lady novelist agrees to take tea with him in his master's kitchen the next afternoon. Another man to be given an invitation to call is Noel Corkoran, who happens to be Adams' master. This prepares for the exceedingly comic second act in which Mrs. Haines, the cook, discovers that Adams has been double dealing with her, and in a fit of hysterical temper refuses to prepare dinner on an emergency order for Corkoran. Miss Vere undertakes to help out.

While she is peeling potatoes Corkoran comes into the kitchen for the first time in his life and recognizes her. Then begins the real love story between them which ends agreeably. Marie Tempest, as Mable Vere, is altogether fascinating, feminine and alluring. A. Graham Browne and a capable supporting cast are seen to advantage in the play.

MAJESTIC

It has been several years since Anna
Held has appeared in Boston in a musical comedy and her coming to the Majestic Theatre for two weeks beginning November 6, in "Follow Me," the comedy with music, in which she will star
and in which she has a financial interest, with the Messrs. Shubert is a noteworthy announcement. For the little French comedienne always has been a top favorite in Boston.

In her last Boston visit, which was last July, she was seen and admired as Anna Held, the woman, whose tales of the horrors of the European war, which she encountered when for months she sang to the maimed and blind French soldiers, stirred her auditors to tears and brought the talented star new and much-to-be-desired laurels.

It will be as Anna Held the saucy, eyerol-ling, toe-kicking rollicking star of the musical comedy stage and also as an exponent of highest dramatic art, with an intimate touch of her endeavors for her suffering countrymen, that Miss Held will be seen here.

The supporting cast is headed by Roy Atwell as principal comedian, and includes many well known favorites. The large chorus is promised as containing some of the most beautiful young women of the stage.

PARK SQUARE

Next Monday will mark the beginning of the second week of "The House of Glass" at the Park Square Theatre, Boston. Widely heralded as the greatest dramatic event of New York's last season, in which city it played throughout an entire year, its first performance in Boston last Monday confirmed this impression most indelibly. And it is safe to say that Boston will reap of its treasure as a dramatic treat through the short engagement that is allowed the play.

Presented by such able producers as Cohan and Harris, this production stands as a brilliant monument to their endeavor. The cast they have given the play is in every manner perfect, and headed by Mary Ryan, the young actress who is becoming the most talked of figure on the dramatic stage because of the rapid strides she has made since she first became a stellar figure, they aside from its sterling qualities as drama.

SHUBERT

The Winter Garden's latest offering,
"Robinson Crusoe, Jr.," with the irrepressible Al Jolson, star entertainer of that institution of humor, beauty and present-day popular music, comes to the Shubert Theatre, Boston, next Monday,
November 6.

Jolson is always sure to be seen in fast company and his supporting cast this season is, fortunately, the original one.
"Robinson Crusoe, Jr.," is described as an original musical extravaganza in two acts and ten tremendous scenes.
The book is by Edgar Smith and Harold Atteridge, the latter author being responsible for the lyrics as well. The music is by Sigmund Romberg and James Hanley. J. C. Huffman has staged the production, while the musical numbers are the work of Allen K. Foster. Little of the theme of Crusoe of story book fame has been utilized, although many characters from the story
appear in the play, such as Crusoe himself, "Good man" Friday and the fiendish cannibals.

Among some of the songs which Mr.
Jolson will introduce are "Down Upon the Swanee River Flows," "Now He's Got a Girl," "Yaeki Hicki Doola," "Tillie Titwillow" and others. As usual

OPERA HOUSE

The advance crew from the New York Hippodrome have arrived, and all last week witnessed the actual work of preparing for the forthcoming engagement of Charles Dillingham's spectacle, "Hip, Hip, Hooray," at the Boston Opera House. The technical and mechanical staffs of the world's biggest playhouse have undertaken to reconstruct the local stage and install an artificial ice plant for the premiere here Monday, November 13.

A new stage will be constructed in sections so that the stage floor proper will conceal the ice-pond used in the spectacular ice ballet, which was the talk of the entire country last year.
The stage will be entirely refitted to obtain the same electrical effects used at the New York Hippodrome and as soon as the mechanical changes have been completed the entire equipment, which is carried in duplicate, will be brought to Boston and set in place the week before the engagement opens.

The plan is to reproduce exactly the great pageant which broke all records at the big playhouse in New York last season. (All the great stars and all the brilliant features of last year have been retained, including Sousa and his band, Charlotte, the greatest skater of her time, and an ensemble of over three hundred.

During the Boston engagement the same policy that has been so successful at the New York Hippodrome will be inaugurated at the Boston Opera House, with two performances daily and a popular scale of prices. The highest price every afternoon (except Saturday) will be one dollar. The seat sale will start a week from next Tuesday morning, and mail orders received prior to November 7, will be filed in the order of their receipt and filled when the public sale opens. Besides the box office sale, tickets may be purchased at Steiner's, 162 Boylston street.

TREMONT

Mrs. Fiske and her splendid supporting company in "Erstwhile Susan"
begin their third week at the Tremont Theatre on Monday evening. Although Mrs. Fiske has been seen in Boston in a wide range of parts and in plays as various in character as Ibsen's "Rosmersholm" and the American comedy
"Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," it is safe to say that never before has she delighted her admirers more thoroughly than by her impersonation of Juliet Miller, the elocutionist from Iowa, in the quaint and humorous comedy of Pennsylvania
Dutch life in which she is now appearing.

Messrs. Corey and Ritter, Mrs. Fiske's star with an organization of players of the first rank. The play is mounted with the greatest care and artistic taste. The interior shown is an exact replica of the living-room in a house near Allentown, and practically all of the furniture used was bought at farmhouses
in the Dutch sections of Pennsylvania.
Matinees are given on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, beginning at 2:15,
and the evening performances begin at 8:15. The curtain falls at the evening performances at 10:45 o'clock.

WILBUR

It is rather a remarkable fact that the detectable musical comedy "Very Good Eddie," which starts on its thirteenth and last triumphant week at the Wilbur Theatre, next Monday, should have even exceeded in popularity its companion play, "Nobody Home," which the same producers, Elisabeth Marbury and F.
Ray Comstock, presented at this house
just a year ago.

It is a tuneful, joyous offering, by Philip Bartholomae, the author of
"When Dreams Come True," with a cast of many favorites, including those exquisite dancers, Inez Hall and William Reardon. The "Cake Walk" introduced by this pair has made a decided hit, and will be continued all the coming week.

It is extremely rich in charming music,
while in the matter of comedy it far surpasses Philip Bartholomae's own work in his "Over Night."

The complications of the switching of husbands and wives is handled in a most unobtrusive, yet delicate manner.
Laughable situations follow one another in a speed-limit fashion, and not even when the splendid musical numbers are introduced is there a halt or hesitation in the quick procedure which marks the performance as a whole.

As clean and sweet as a mountain
rill is "The Cinderella Man," the new Oliver Morosco success which begins an engagement at the Wilbur Theatre on November 13, with the same cast of players that interpreted this delightful romance at the Hudson Theatre, New York, including Shelley Hull, Phoebe Foster, Frank Bacon, Charles Lane,
Berton Churchill, Reginald Mason,
Hubert Wilke, Theodore Babcock,
Louise Rial, Percival T. Moore and others.

Edward Childs Carpenter, the author, has given the public in Marjorie Ganer, a character true to life, a simple, yet strong minded American girl, who has just lost her mother. She does not know her father, her parents having been separated. She has lived abroad throughout the years of her short life.

The death of her mother takes her back to her father, a grim, powerful man. There is a clash between father and daughter. Her father's friends,

My Conception of the Presidency

By Charles Evans Hughes

On the eve of Election Day the American people are entitled to a summary of the things I have stood for in this campaign, as they are the things I shall stand for as President.

No man can tell in advance what unexpected demands the next four years
may present, but one whose conception of the President's duty rests upon fundamental principles can describe with entire sincerity how the problems of administration would be approached and in what spirit they would be solved.

A man charged with the duty of reaching a desired goal knows that the road to it is found in following that path which sound judgment and clear vision open up step by step. I can show the road I expect to travel.

I propose first of all to start right.
The President is primarily an executive.
It is his supreme duty to attend to the business of the nation, to safeguard its interests, to anticipate its needs, to enforce its laws.

The first act of a President who takes this view of his duties is to call about him the ablest cabinet the country can furnish, men who can deal with the tremendous international and domestic problems which will confront us in the next four years.

My conception of the Presidency
differs absolutely from that of Mr. Wilson. I look upon the President as the administrative head of the Government. He looks upon the President as primarily the political leader and lawmaker of the nation.

In the two departments of Government most closely touching our foreign relations—the Department of State and the Department of the Navy—he chose men whom he knew to be wholly unequal to their duties. Administrative obligation was subordinated to political exigency. I can assure the country that any administration under my direction will stand upon sound administrative ground with the ablest cabinet
the country can supply.

Across the road we are to travel this next four years, even though we start right and move with prudence and courage, serious hazards are thrown like breaks in a roadway made by a torrential rain. These all rise out of the war torrent which has overwhelmed Europe.
The first has to do with our foreign relations. It is the President's duty to safeguard the interests of our own nation and to preserve the friendship of every other nation.

No man is more determined than I to maintain the peace which the United States, Spain, Sweden, Norway and all the American republics now enjoy. But I should seek to maintain that peace by a firm and courteous insistence on the rights of our citizens at home and abroad.

An American in Mexico is subject to Mexican law, but he is an American and is entitled to the protection of his own government in his lawful business. For one I shall never consent to a policy which leaves Americans helpless against the lawlessness of any country in which they have a right to do business.

There confronts labor in the next four years a condition more serious than any that American laboring men have been called upon to face. When this war began over a million American working men were seeking vainly for employment. When the war ends and the developed energies of a new Europe are thrown into commercial production our nation will face a competition such as it never knew.

One of two things must happen—
either millions of men will be seeking work in vain or else there must be thought out in advance the problem of commercial organization as France and England and Germany are seeking to think out the problem today. Every one of these nations is preparing to defend its own market by a protective tariff. The end of the war will end also the opportunities for labor created by the war. The millions in the trenches today will be our industrial competitors tomorrow. If we are to save our laboring men from a catastrophe we must plan a tariff protection along sound, just and economic lines. To this en-men of position and achievement, a famous composer, an eminent attorney take kindly to her, but she is discorsolate. Lonely in spirit, she feels she must have companionship. Being her father's daughter, she finds companionship in a daring manner.

In Anthony Quintard, a young writer of exceptionally brilliant promise, of good family, but poor, she finds her comrade and friend. Finally she sees in him the one man in the world. The unconventional manner of their meeting is misunderstood and tragedy stalks in to their lives. The denouement is brought about in a perfectly natural though ingenious manner.

COPLEY

"Sweet Lavender," which is to be produced by the Henry Jewett Players at the Copley Theatre next week, is undoubtedly the most tender and human story that has come from the pen of the great English dramatist, Pinero.
Written before "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray," "Iris," "The Gay Lord Quex," and the so-called "problem" plays, it is entirely free from the atmosphere of these later pieces, and possesses all the freshness and charm of a world-famous playwright in his most engaging mood.
It has been the most popular of all of Pinero's plays.

The story is one of youthful love,
human frailty and generous impulse.
The play is a comedy of pure sentiment, interspersed with kindly wit and quaint humor. When it was produced first in London, one celebrated critic declared it to be "as brilliant as a flash of lightning."

deavor I pledge myself and the men who are to be my colleagues.

In this matter again I differ absolutely from the policy of the present administration. Democratic platforms have declared that the Government has no right to levy tariff duties except for income. This is the fundamental faith of the Democratic party.

I pledge myself and those who stand with me to deal with the needs of laboring men the country over, whatever their trade or organization, upon the principle of giving the largest protection possible to every American working man and the largest participation possible in the prosperity of our industries with special favors to none.

Finally it is to be remembered that every European government is putting itself behind its industries; organizing them, encouraging them and suggesting economies. When the commercial struggle begins anew, the industries of every European country will go into the world markets backed by the effective cooperation and intelligent oversight of their government.

Andover 4, Forge Village 1

Saturday afternoon on the local grounds the Andover United Soccer team met and defeated the Forge Village eleven in an exhibition game, 4 goals to 1. The contest was interesting from the fact that these teams are scheduled to meet in the first round of the State cup at Andover. The visitors were without several of the regulars but even with their full team the locals should experience little difficulty in winning. Andover had several changes in their line up and these worked to good advantage. Morley did well in his first time in goal and Porter, Killackey and Billy Deyermund appeared in the front ranks, the latter after several weeks' lay off. Ramsay also shone and scored half of Andover's goals, Pat Dougherty accounting for the other half. A Carnathan was given a trial at left half and did very well.

The first half was all in Andover's favor and four goals were scored. Ramsay and Dougherty alternating. Forge Village was never dangerous and got their goal in the second half through the individual effort of T. Kelly. Andover didn't score in the second half but might have done so had they chosen, contenting themselves with individual runs.

The summary:
Andover: Morley; Low, Black; Coleman, Downs, Carnathan; Porter, Deyermund, Killackey, Dougherty, Ramsay.
Forge Village: Sullivan; J. Kelly, A. Hobson; Carney, McPortland, Costello; Douglass, Mulligan, Walsh, J. Hobson, T. Kelly.
Score: Andover 4, Forge Village 1. Goals: Ramsay 2, Dougherty 2, Walsh 1. Referee: Ernest Smith. Linesmen: A. P. Little and Scott. Time 45-minute halves.

Andover 14, Worcester 0

Phillips Academy won the annual game from Worcester Saturday afternoon 14 to 0 through the former's ability to profit by Worcester's mistakes and also by the great defensive play of the Andover line which prevented Worcester from making any gains after the first period. Coach Daly tried out a new backfield and Stover was tried at end with great success, his catching of forward passes and all-round playing featuring the game. Boltwood at fullback was a tower of defense and his tackling was disastrous to the Worcester runners. Herr, Noyes, and Davis excelled in the line, the two latter being responsible for the blocked punt which resulted in Andover's first touchdown. Andover has the strongest line in years but the backfield lacks speed.

There was no scoring in the first half although a beautiful pass Flynn to Stover netted thirty yards and the ball was on Worcester's 4-yard line when time was called. A blocked punt following two miserable passes to Worcester's fullback resulted in Munger scoring and a circus catch of a forward pass by Stover gained 45 yards and enabled Boltwood to score the second touchdown. Stover kicked both goals. Except in the first period the play was entirely in Worcester's territory.

The summary:

Punchard 45, Johnson 0

The Punchard football team defeated the Johnson High School eleven of North Andover on last Friday afternoon at North Andover by the score of 45 to 0. The local boys were superior in all departments of the game and their goal-line was never threatened. Several long runs were made by the Punchard team and on one occasion, Cronin picked up a fumble and raced 90 yards for a touchdown. For Punchard, Cronin, G. Brown, Paine, Buchanan and Watson played excellent ball.

Silence is Golden

A fussy little woman with gold-rimmed spectacles and a thoughtful brow got into a tram and took the only unoccupied seat.

The man next her evidently had been drinking, and for a while she contented herself with merely sniffing contemptuously at her neighbor, but finally she called up the conductor.

"Conductor," she demanded indignantly, "do you permit drunken persons to ride upon this tram?"

"No, ma'am," replied the official, in a confidential whisper. "But don't say a word, and stay where you are, ma'am. If you hadn't told me I'd never have noticed you."—Tit-Bits.

Churches Will Observe Tuberculosis Sunday

More than 100,000 churches and other religious organizations are expected to observe Tuberculosis Sunday on December 3 or 10, this year making the seventh annual participation of religious bodies in an intensive campaign to educate the public on the subject of tuberculosis.

Two Sundays have been designated by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis in order that the churches may choose the one which will best fit in with their program of services. These dates come at the beginning and end of Tuberculosis Week, which is conducted under the direction of the National Association. For those worshipping on Saturday, December 2 or 9 have been set aside.

The fact that Tuberculosis Sunday is an undenominational and non-sectarian movement is being emphasized in order that all possible religious groups may be reached. In addition, many social, l. ternal and civic organizations are planning to hold meetings on one of these days or at other times during Tuberculosis Week. Fifteen hundred state and local anti-tuberculosis associations in every state in the Union are assisting in arousing enthusiasm and organizing the campaign so that on these days the subject of tuberculosis will be presented to the greatest possible number of people.

It is estimated that last year 2,000,000 pieces of literature were distributed during Tuberculosis Week, a half million of which were sent out by the National Association. This year the Association has prepared a sermon on "Indifference to Tuberculosis" and a pamphlet entitled "Talking Points on Tuberculosis." A prayer written especially for Tuberculosis Sunday by Prof. Walter Rauschenbush of the Rochester Theological Seminary will also be distributed. Copies of these pamphlets and others relating to the week's campaign may be obtained by writing to The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, 105 East 22nd Street, New York City.

Pleasures of Youth

A public school teacher once put this question to her pupils: "Which would you rather have—three bags with two apples in each bag, or two bags with three apples in each bag?"

"Three bags, with two apples in each bag," was the surprising answer given by one lad, while the rest of the class was struggling with the problem.

"Why, Harry?"

ANDOVER AND THE ELECTION

Andover is not just like any other place in the Commonwealth in its attitude toward candidates for public office. This does not mean that the peculiarities in Andover represent notions that are either unsound or reprehensible, but it comes about because of the different types of citizens that must be considered in any discussion of political issues.

There is not lacking evidence that many of the educators of the country are inclined to favor one of their own number, in the person of President Wilson. It is not surprising this is so. Their minds naturally work along lines similar to his. And here, again, there is no reason for criticism of this particular bent, but because Andover has a rather larger number of men engaged in instructing youth than almost any town in the Commonwealth of its size, the peculiar arguments to reach them cannot wisely be overlooked.

There is also the class of voters who have an entirely different viewpoint from which they must study political conditions, made up of the larger group of men employed in the local factories. The purely academic has no direct appeal to them, but the practical, hardheaded propositions involved in government are of serious importance to attract their consideration.

Between the two classes is the big Middle Class, whose judgment is, after all, pretty nearly the best balanced that is to be found in any community, where in many cases, the appeals of both the former classes have weight.

The above analysis of the types in Andover is made in connection with the pending election, not so much for its application to the striking issues of the present moment, as a preliminary to the belief which the writer has, that never in the history of national elections, has there been a common ground upon which all of these classes could unite as effectively as they can in the present contest.

Protection Alone Can Save American Industry

It is true that to the workers in the factories, the appeal involving the protection of American labor, the maintenance of American standards of living, the security of the American market for American manufacturers and American workmen, may have rather more potent force than to some others. It is probably true that to the men whose lives are devoted to studies and research, and consideration of governmental factors and such things, the appeal of fitting this great nation to cope with any possible disaster such as that which is occupying practically all of the rest of the civilized world, is the most prominent issue for consideration.

But how can either one of these policies be worked out apart from the other? And we are led to this query by the very interesting contribution to political thought made by one of our young men in the columns of the Townsman a week ago, in which an enthusiastic zeal for better preparedness, (as men are wont to look upon that issue from the purely military standpoint), led to some criticism of the emphasis which had been placed upon certain other important considerations. The brief word in this column at that time, called attention to the impossibility of providing for the military preparedness without ample provision for the industrial preparedness, made even more necessary than ever when the War shall close.

It has been interesting, during the past week, to note the comment upon what will happen "after the War," by such men as Mr. Gary, the head of the great steel corporation—probably the foremost business figure in the United States, and by several of the other great industrial leaders of the country. In every case, these men have been of the type which does not lend itself to agitation or political partisanship but who analyze conditions from the cold-blooded standpoint of good or bad business. Their opinions are in complete accord that the liberation of 4,000,000 workers in American munition factories, by the cessation of war abroad, will in itself be a factor to seriously disturb the field of manufacture in the United States. They are again in accord when they review the foreign situation and see that something like 30,000,000 of men now engaged in killing one another, letting whatever remnant may be left, and probably the greater part of the number will be left, return to the regular employment, largely in industrial lines, which occupied the people of England, France, Belgium, Germany and Austria previous to the War.

On the one hand, the smaller group in this country represent workers who will be on the ground to compete for the other fellow's job, when there is no longer a call for their services as moulders of brass and pourers of lead. Where there are two jobs and only one man available, there soon comes a situation which is confronting many of the industries of the United States at the present time; but when there are two men and only one job, the time has come for the application of every possible method of correcting a situation which may leave half the people unemployed. Hence, if there were to be no competition from abroad, we should have a problem here in this country of itself having no mean proportions. But in this remarkable period through which we are passing, there is one nation standing out above all others in its ability to accumulate money,—to make of itself not only the best market in the world under normal conditions, but wonderfully so under the abnormal conditions which have made the United States the place of deposit for a greater percentage of the wealth of the world than ever before. The hundreds of millions of workers across the water will be pretty hungry for money when they again get into their regular occupations. They will work for low wages, as they always have following every war in the history of the world. Their products will seek the markets where money is most easily obtained in payment for the goods sold. That means the United States; and in this brief story we believe is told the great fundamental issue of the pending campaign between the two great parties who ask for votes next Tuesday.

The prosperity of Andover, whether it be of one class or another of those referred to at the opening of this article, is directly concerned in this issue. Our manufacturers are the real backbone of the town, because they represent the largest employment of labor that we have. The average wage in these factories reaches to the same figure as is found in all other centers where the same industries are established. The figure is at present time well above the highest mark ever previously recorded in labor statistics, and probably would reach a week, for all grades of work in the different classes known to Andover, between $11. and $12., taking the highest and the lowest wages in every case. When Russia is planning to build her industrial life with American machinery, American raw material, American instruction,—to make American goods on a wage scale less than one-fifth this figure, it is easy to see the competition that will face the United States after the War, and will come directly home to the people of this industrial community. When Japan matches all the conditions referred to as applying to Russia, with a labor cost of about two-thirds that attributed to Russia, a still further menace to American industrial supremacy is noted.

Two other issues have been made prominent in all the discussing which is now before the voters for a last analysis. One has to do with the economy in government and greater efficiency, and the record made in Massachusetts under the leadership of Governor McCall has been a noteworthy example of what can be accomplished when a genuine effort is made to give to the people of the Commonwealth, service in place of promises. For the first time in twelve years, the state tax shows a reduction, and the amount of this reduction, applied to every man, woman and child in the Commonwealth, represents a saving to the people of a little over fifty cents for each citizen of the state. Applied to Andover, it represents money enough to do a quarter of all the road building that we have had to provide for this year—a figure of no mean proportions, and one which would attract considerable attention under consideration before the annual town meeting. Add to this saving the many other real services performed by Governor McCall, and it is easy to understand why the Commonwealth promises to give to him a tremendous vote next Tuesday.

The Underlying Issue of All

The last word in the campaign cannot be spoken without a reference to the underlying issue which leads the voter to a support of Republican policies. The world has never known a national leader whose acts have been a steady contribution to a lessened patriotism, to a continued disregard for all the elements which make up the best form of citizenship as these things have been noted during the past three years and a half of American government. It is not surprising that with the American conscience thus dulled and the spirit that animated the founders of the American Republic almost completely crushed, the difficulty which has been encountered in arousing men to enlist in the army and navy and hold the personnel of those branches of public service to the high standards which we have been wont to boast of, has led to a complete disruption of this part of public service. Wisely has the standard-bearer for the Republican party and those who have supported him by active participation in the campaign, given emphasis to the issue of genuine Americanism. After all, does any issue that has been raised, great or small, any ideas that have been set forth of much or little importance, have any other real basis for appealing to the people of the nation or the people of this particular community for their votes in favor of a change in the national government, rest on any other real basis than this primary issue of that kind of Americanism that embraces all classes, so that the look-ahead may be clear visioned?

Andover usually does its duty in political contests and very seldom makes mistakes in approval of candidates. May the response in the present fight still further emphasize her proud title of "EVERYWHERE AND ALWAYS THE MANLY, SOBER, STRAIGHT-FORWARD NEW ENGLAND TOWN."

ALL HALLOW'S EVE

Ancient Festival Observed by Local Young People. Many Parties and Masquerades Held

Hobgoblins, witches, warlocks and all spooky things held sway Tuesday night, and seldom has Andover youth celebrated Hallowe'en so extensively as this year. Jack o' lanterns at the windows and the over-zealous hand at the doorbell, with the accompanying blast from the pea-shooter, reminded the older ones of the days that had been. For the most part the celebration was carried on in good spirit, and little damage was done to property.

Hallowe'en parties were numerous and they began Monday night and the last are scheduled for this evening.

The Pythian Sisters of Garfield Temple, No. 56, held a very successful Hallowe'en party Monday evening in Garfield Hall. There was a large attendance of Knights and Sisters present with their friends. Grand Deputy Emma C. Perkins and Mr. Perkins of Rosindale were also present.

During the evening many Hallowe'en games were played which caused much laughter and fun, and the old-fashioned dances were danced by everyone.

Miss Mildred Tower gave several very enjoyable readings. The hall was decorated with black and yellow crepe paper, foliage and electric lights covered by small pumpkin faces. Refreshments of cake, sandwiches and coffee were served by the committee in charge of Mrs. Harry Gouck, chairman.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Manning on Washington avenue the same evening, a crowd of youngsters made merry with a candy-pull and the ever-popular ducking for apples. Hallowe'en decorations made the rooms attractive and dainty refreshments were served. Among those present were—Margaret and Ruth May, Isabel Hill, Frances Dalton, Mary Cole, William Dalton, William Goldstein, James, John and Walter Soutar, Gordon Colquhoun, Margaret Manning, Ethel Manning and Albert Manning, Mr. and Mrs. Miles Ward and Mrs. Edward T. Cole.

Miss Elizabeth Cole entertained the members of the Hawthorne Club of which she is a member, at a Hallowe'en party Monday evening at her home on Elm street. Hallowe'en favors were distributed, neckties to the gentlemen and hats to the ladies. Refreshments pertaining to Hallowe'en were served and games played. Those present were Misses Florence Mears, Marion Dearborn, Maria Fairweather, Thelma Wanamaker, Grace Stevens, Elizabeth Cole; Messrs. Richard Abbott, Franklin Ellis, Percy Crosby, Arthur Lewis, Frederick E. Cheever and William Holden.

The South Church Christian Endeavor Society held a Hallowe'en social in the vestry of the church on Tuesday evening, with a large number present. Upon entering, each member was ushered into a dark room of horrors where strange noises, electric shocks, and Satan himself were encountered. Following this, games were played and refreshments of doughnuts, apples, popcorn balls and punch were served.

The party broke up at a seasonable hour and all present spent a very enjoyable evening.

The barn at the parochial school on Chestnut street was the scene of Hallowe'en festivities Tuesday night when the "Willing Workers" of St. Augustine's church had a Hallowe'en Whist Party for the benefit of the school building fund. About fifty were present and at the conclusion of play the prize winners were announced as follows: Ladies—Mrs. Margaret Gorman, Misses Katherine McNally, Jennie McNally, Margaret Welsh, Mae Dugan, Eleanor Dugan, Helen Driscoll; gentlemen—Michael Crowley, Michael Gardner, Daniel Sullivan and Daniel Hartigan. It is planned to hold several of these parties during the winter months.

At the home of her parents on Elm street, Tuesday night, Miss Beatrice Goff entertained a number of her young friends in the form of a masquerade party. The house was attractively decorated with autumn foliage and many curious Hallowe'en designs, all of which combined to give the proper atmosphere for a celebration of the festival. Merriment reigned while the children played Hallowe'en games, including a cobweb party, and there was much speculation as to who was who. This was discovered when, just before a sumptuous supper was served, the entire company unmasked, and guesses as to the identity were wide of the mark. The evening was thoroughly enjoyed by the young people.

Another pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Leary on Highland road, when a large company of young people were given Hallowe'en fare by their hostess, Miss Katherine Leary. Among those present were—Misses Katherine Kerwin, Christine Muldoon, Mary Flynn, Minna Keary, Anna Kyle, Madeline Lindsay, Margaret Keary, Margaret Crowley, Katherine Leary; Messrs. Joseph Bouleau, John Hill, Augustine Sullivan, Robert Black, Robert Christie, Roy Dentremont, Thomas Linehan, Leo Allison, William Brown, John Leary, Herbert Allison.

GOOD-CITIZENSHIP RALLY

The Good-Citizenship meeting in the town hall on Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, promises to be of great interest. Printed invitations are being sent out to every new Andover voter of 1916, and all Andover residents, men or women are urged to attend.

Our town moderator, Alfred L. Ripley, will give an address of welcome; Principal Alfred E. Stearns will speak upon "Citizenship," and patriotic hymns will be sung.

Auto Thieves Busy

Auto thieves have made their appearance in Andover, and last Sunday, early in the evening, a large seven-passenger Packard touring car was appropriated while the owner was at lunch at the Rose Cottage Tea Room. The car belonged to Alexander C. Stohn of 226 Metropolitan avenue, Rosindale, and was in his charge. He neglected to make it secure against thieves and while the party were enjoying their lunch it was quietly whirled away. Police Officer Napier was immediately notified and Chief of Police Smith gave a description of the car to the police of the surrounding cities and towns, with the result that early Monday morning it was found abandoned on Oak street, Lawrence. There was considerable gas left in the tank and the theory of the police is that the car was taken merely for a ride by someone who was familiar with autos. The owner was notified by Chief Smith, and the chauffeur came to Andover Monday afternoon and the car was turned over to him. The number of the car was 16967.

Thieves were busy last week and succeeded in removing the light tanks from the automobile of Dr. J. J. Daly. The machine was in the yard in the rear of the Daly block on Main street. No trace of the tank or the thieves has been found.

Boy Scout Notes

Wednesday evening Scoutmaster Kilcup, of Lawrence, with four Scouts, presented a very interesting and instructive program to the local Scouts and visitors at the Scout headquarters in the Guild. In attendance besides 65 of the local Scouts, included some interested parents.

No meeting of the examination board will be held tonight. The meeting will be held one week from tonight at 7 o'clock. Scouts desiring to pass tests should sign up at once.

Notice has been received at the local office of a new and better handbook which will be in the market December 15.

Selectmen Hold Up New Lights

The Board of Selectmen has not yet granted permission to the Lawrence Gas Co. for the new white-way lighting scheme. There are several minor difficulties awaiting adjustment, which will be easily agreed upon. The main difficulty is the question of poles, the company desiring to use wooden ones while the selectmen will insist on iron ones. The claim is made that with iron poles a shock might be transmitted, but Chairman Eames does not believe the objection serious enough to prevent the city of Boston from using iron poles. An agreement is expected early next week, in which case the work will be started at once.

Election Returns

The Andover Club will keep open house Tuesday night and election returns will be received from all over the country. An invitation is extended to the citizens of the town to make the clubrooms their meeting-place for that night.

Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock the second annual Good Citizenship meeting will be held in the town hall. Principal Stearns will give the address.

Your friends can buy anything you can give them---except your photograph.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY

Small Audience Heard Candidates
Tell of Achievements of Wilson Administration

All the legislation that has amounted to anything in the past fifty years was claimed by the Democratic orators at the rally in the Town Hall Tuesday night as the result of the wonderful "non-partisan" administration of Woodrow Wilson. Congressman Michael F. Phelan of Lynn was a guest of the local Democrats and he told his audience that more constructive and humanitarian laws were placed in the Statute book in the last three years than by any other Congress in the history of the country.

Roger Sherman Hoar, Congressman Rogers' opponent in this district, made his first formal address and paid his respects to his opponent, characterizing him as an "enemy of labor and a hater of the working class." He said his own record while a member of the Massachusetts Senate was 100% correct and he challenged any one to pick a flaw in it. On the great measures which have come before the present Democratic administration, Congressman Rogers had been found wanting. His one great achievement was the circulation of a wonderful speech "The Saddle in the Saddle." President Wilson proved himself to be in the saddle for it was he who caused the passage of the child labor law which hit Southern industries. Mr. Hoar claimed that the country was prosperous not because of the war but in spite of the war, and believed it to be wiser to continue the present administration for another four years. Safety first was Mr. Hoar's motto and he urged his hearers to vote for Wilson and Hoar and take no chances.

Frederick W. Mansfield, candidate for governor was the first speaker, and he assailed Governor McCall's record. He modestly referred to the fact that in the past ten years all of the beneficial labor laws which had been enacted "had been drafted by me." He denied the charge of the Boston Herald that as attorney for the federation of labor he had been paid for drafting these bills. He had done these things simply for the benefit of the laboring class, which comprises 85% of the voters of Massachusetts. He announced that the tariff and Munroe doctrines, were dead issues and that the people were interested only in measures that made for their welfare and the Democratic party appealed to them as the result of all the beneficial legislation passed in the last three years.

Joseph Robinson of this town, president of the Woodrow Wilson Club of Boston College, also spoke. Attorney William J. Cronin presided, and introduced the speakers. The audience numbered less than one hundred, and as Candidate Mansfield remarked "Would vote the Democratic ticket anyway."

Guest of Railway Business Association

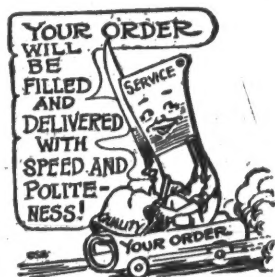

C. B. Baldwin was the guest of the Railway Business Association at a dinner given to fifty Railroad and Industrial Men at the "Waldorf Astoria," New York City, last Monday evening.

The party included about fifteen railroad presidents; Howard Elliott representing the New England Railroad Lines.

The speakers of the evening were Frank Trumbull, Chairman of the Chesapeake & Ohio Board of Directors, and Alfred P. Thom, General Counsel, Southern Railway, both of whom outlined the position of the railroads in respect to the Newlands Resolution recently passed by Congress.

Andover Association Meeting

The fall meeting of the Andover Association of ministers and churches was held Tuesday afternoon and evening at the United Congregational church in Lawrence. The meeting was of unusual interest and many subjects of interest were discussed. The evening session was devoted to young people, Arthur Lewis of this town being one of the speakers.

ANDOVER HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The annual meeting of the Society was held at the South Church vestry on Monday evening and was well attended. After the presentation of the reports of the secretary and the treasurer, the voting in of new members, and the election of officers for the ensuing year, as noted below, President Abbott introduced Judge George H. Poor of Boston, for so many years an honored resident and officer of the town, as the speaker of the evening.

Judge Poor prefaced his address by a brief but appropriate tribute to Mr. Oliver W. Vennard, whom he missed as he came into the church—an honest, useful man, not brilliant, but always kindly, genial and faithful. He then read from manuscript a compact but interesting historical sketch of the old town, before and after the division. This was followed by still more interesting reminiscences, given in a conventional style, of events and people of the past seventy years. He touched upon the division of the town, the holding of the annual town meetings before that, alternately in the North and South Parishes, on the old postoffice at the "Campion corner", on the Eagle Hotel, the burning of the Mansion House in November, 1887, the endowment of the Puncture School, the enforcement of the Fugitive Slave Law, the wonderful address of William Lloyd Garrison at the North Parish in 1861, the visit of President Franklin Pierce to Andover in connection with his relationship to the Aiken family, etc., etc.

Interspersed with these references were pleasant mentionings of prominent men of the old time, such as John Smith, Squire Hazen, Samuel Lawrence, Dr. Samuel Johnson, Hobart Clark, Professor Park, Dr. John L. Taylor, Dea. and Hon. Amos Abbott, David Hidden, David Gray, David Rice, William Jenkins, B. Frank Wardwell—nor are these by any means the only figures of Andover's past citizens who seemed to stand before us in the speaker's rapid survey of old-time people!

By a cordial standing vote, thanks were expressed to Judge Poor for his address, coupled with the request that he would favor the Society with the manuscript he had used and also with his unwritten remarks if he was able to reproduce them. Such record, deposited in the archives of the Society, would be of permanent interest and value.

At the business meeting which preceded the address, officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows:—President, Charles E. Abbott; vice-presidents, Mrs. M. S. McCurdy, N. E. Bartlett; treasurer, George T. Abbott; secretary, Miss Susan K. Jones; librarian, John V. Holt; directors: Miss Agnes Park, Miss Belle J. Butterfield, William A. Trow, Rev. C. C. Carpenter, Omar P. Chase.

Miss Fannie Brown, Miss Florence Parker, Miss Abbie S. Davis and Frederick E. Cheever were admitted to membership.

Materially the Society had a very successful year and the financial report showed a very gratifying balance in the treasury.

The aim of the society materially is to arouse an unbounded enthusiasm among its members and the citizens of the town for a Society house where the exhibits may be permanently cared for. Some time during the winter or spring the Society will hold a big entertainment, plans for which will be discussed later.

Abbot Academy Notes

Last Saturday afternoon Miss Howey took the school on a "trip around the Abbot world", introducing the girls by means of a very interesting stereopticon lecture to many of the photographs and works of art owned by the school.

Mr. Robert E. Speer spoke at the Sunday evening service.

The school is looking forward with much eagerness to the reading by Charles Rann Kennedy of New York which will be given next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in Davis Hall. Since the appearance a few years ago of "The Servant in the House", Mr. Kennedy has been one of the best-known and most-talked-about dramatic writers in America, and each new play of his arouses much interest and discussion. On Wednesday evening he will read the whole of one of his recent dramas—a short, very strange one-act play called "The Terrible Meek", he will give a few scenes from "The Servant in the House", and two or three dramatic interpretations from the Bible. The admission fee for those outside of the school will be 50 cents.

AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP

Address by Rev. Frederick A. Wilson to Members of Clan Johnston at Free Church Last Sunday

"To be ideal Americans we must maintain American ideals" was the keynote of the address on American Citizenship by Rev. Frederick A. Wilson to members of Clan Johnston at the annual service held at the Free Church last Sunday morning. Mr. Wilson took his text from Acts 21, 39: "I am a man which am a Jew of Tarsus, a citizen of no mean city." Paul was proud of his citizenship and boasted of it. He was also proud of his birthplace and took pains to say that he was born in Tarsus, no mean city. Tarsus in these days was a leader in education, commerce and social life and Paul could well boast of being a citizen of no mean city.

Like Paul it is our privilege to declare "I am an American, a citizen of no mean country." We can take pride in our nationality for in spite of its faults, and they are not few, our country stands highest in the eyes of the world. Its high attainments, its position as a neutral nation, high ideals for mankind, have all raised it to an enviable place in the world.

Mr. Wilson emphasized the advantage which America offered to the newcomer. It was the home of the free, and the oppressed subjects of all lands came to its shores to secure freedom, to work, and to live. One of the strongest factors in American citizenship was the freedom of the individual. It was a government of, for, and by the people. No king, emperor, czar or class of nobles can ever control our laws. The individual can choose his own leader or representative and the people rule.

America believes in the separation of church and state. Each has its part to play, but the state is best when freed from ecclesiastical control. The church can help by uplifting the minds of the citizens. America believes in the public schools for all, white or colored, native, or foreign born. An education may be gained outside of the public schools, but no private or church school can take the place of the public schools in presenting to the youth those American ideals which make for the best American citizenship. They lose much that is democratic in not mingling with all classes of children.

The founders of this nation were men of high character and the Puritan conscience still stands as an American ideal for morals. It is noteworthy that all of the men who have been in the presidency of late years have demanded a high standard of Christian morality and integrity, in office. It is true that some have fallen below the American ideal, but the standard, as a rule has been maintained. The newcomer from foreign lands must forget his hatred of the government left behind. Too many care little for American ideals and these must always be a hindrance till they realize the national spirit and line up to the American ideals. To maintain American ideals we must be ideal Americans. It is not a question of creed or birthplace, but of spirit, conviction and purpose.

Addressing Clan Johnston, Mr. Wilson said he was sure that the high ideals which have made Scotland a nation of liberty loving, self-reliant, energetic men, with strong religious convictions and high moral standards, would strengthen their American life and citizenship. He urged them to stand by American ideals and to make their lives tell for the home, church, and school, the bulwarks of the nation.

Wedding

NESS—CORTHELL

Last Saturday evening at the parsonage of the Free church on Essex street, Miss Helen Corthell, daughter of Andrew Corthell of East Weymouth, was married to Alexander Ness of Shawheen road. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frederick A. Wilson and was witnessed by the immediate relatives of the contracting parties, the double-ring service being used.

The bride, who was attended by Miss Annie Ness, a sister of the groom, wore a traveling suit of blue and carried bride roses. Alfred Nicoll of Shawheen road was best man. The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a gold ring, and the groom's gift to the best man a beautiful gold stickpin.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom on Shawheen road where an excellent wedding supper was served, which was followed by piano, victrola and vocal selections. Games and dancing were enjoyed throughout the evening and the young couple departed for East Weymouth amid showers of rice and confetti and best wishes for a happy wedded life from their many friends and neighbors, making the trip by auto.

The groom is employed in the machine shop of the Smith & Dove Mfg. Co., and was presented with a handsome rocking chair by his work-mates on last Friday morning. The couple received many beautiful and valuable presents.

Carnegie Medals Awarded

The Carnegie Hero Fund Commission at its Fall meeting held in Pittsburgh last Friday awarded medals to fifty-two for acts of heroism. In six cases silver medals were awarded; in forty-six, bronze medals. Twelve of the heroes lost their lives; and to the dependents of six of these pensions aggregating $312 yearly were granted. To the dependents of three of the others who died, sums totalling $2000 were granted, to be applied in various ways subject to the direction of the commission.

Two of the heroes sustained injuries which disabled them. In the case of one benefit of $125 was granted; and in that of the other a pension of $30 a month was allowed.

In New England five bronze medals were awarded, two of these going to Lawrence men and one to North Andover as follows:

Henry Hinchcliffe, 52 Bodwell street, Lawrence, Mass., 17, a baker's apprentice saved an indeterminate number of unidentified boys from drowning at Lawrence on June 30, 1913, when a bath-house runaway fell into the Merrimack River with thirty boy occupants, eleven of whom were drowned.

Elijah Kawash, 329 Chestnut street, Lawrence, Mass., 23, a weaver, saved Richard Hajjar, a weaver, from drowning at Methuen, Mass., August 15, 1915. James J. Donahue, a fifteen-year-old schoolboy of 38 East Water street, North Andover, Mass., who saved Lee, North Andover, December 21, 1914, after the younger boy had broken through the ice, has been awarded a bronze medal.

Hinchcliffe may take a course at Phillips Academy and prepare for Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Passing of Empty Farms

A few years ago the abandoned farms of New England caused a good deal of talk. Some States prepared lists of such properties for the purpose of getting owners or tenants for these farms, and some other States which had not abandoned farms but didn't want to be out of style produced lists of farms which could be had. We recall that the first farm listed in the Pennsylvania bulletin was priced at $400 an acre—terms cash. Even Ohio has given owners of farms free publicity which it denies to the owners of other property, and probably other States have done so, too. Now comes the State Board of Agriculture of Connecticut and says that the abandoned farm no longer exists there. By real farmers or back-to-the-landers the farms have all been occupied, and doubtless among them some lands which should never have been farms. With the passage of the abandoned farm has come a subsidence of back to the land talk.

Mrs. Lorin Lockwood of the Bailey district is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Tilton of Malden.

The friends of Miss Marjorie Morrill are pleased to see her out again after her recent quite serious illness.

Mrs. Livingston, Misses Myrtle Livingston, Louise and Marion Greenwood and Mrs. Shaw were in charge of the entertainment, which consisted of a play "The Family Album," piano solo by Myrtle Livingston, vocal solo by Mrs. Biederman, reading by Joseph Lovejoy. Lemonade and candy were sold. The proceeds amounted to thirty dollars, and sixteen dollar were given to the West Church to help swell the fund the Parish is raising for a new vestry.

Government Ownership of Railroads

The thinking men of Andover will undoubtedly be glad to have their attention called to a lecture on "The Government Ownership of Railroads," to be given by Prof. W. J. Cunningham of Harvard University, under the auspices of the Free Church Men's Club, on Tuesday evening, November 14.

Professor Cunningham, whose appointment was recently confirmed by the Harvard Board of Overseers, has been special assistant to J. H. Hustis, temporary receiver of the Boston & Maine Railroad, for many years, and is known throughout the United States as a railroad expert. The following extract from a Boston paper may be of interest:

"The first chair in Transportation in any university or college in America was created at Harvard yesterday (Sept. 26) when Dr. Wm. James Cunningham, of the Harvard Graduate School of Business, was appointed Professor in Transportation. This professorship, the first of its kind created in this country, has an endowment of $250,000, the original gift of which was $12,000, which came from a group of associates and admirers of the late James J. Hill, and the second sum of $125,000 was given by Mr. Hill himself to Harvard."

"Government Control of Railroads" in this country is perhaps nearer than some of us realize. Both political parties are said to favor centralized federal control, and on November 20, hearings will begin in Washington, before the Newlands Committee, appointed by the last Congress, which may ultimately mean very radical changes in the present system of federal control.

The duties of the Newlands Committee, as defined in Public Resolution No. 25, 64th Congress, involve many things; note the following:

"To investigate the subject of the government control and regulation of interstate and foreign transportation, the efficiency of the existing system in protecting the rights of shippers and carriers and in promoting the public interest, the incorporation or control of the incorporation of carriers, and all proposed changes in the organization of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Act to regulate commerce, also the subject of government ownership of all public utilities, such as telegraph, wireless, cable, telephone, express companies and railroads engaged in interstate and foreign commerce and report as to the wisdom or feasibility of government ownership of such utilities and as to the comparative worth and efficiency of government regulation and control as compared with government ownership and operation, with authority to sit during the recess of Congress and with power to summon witnesses, to administer oaths, and to require the various departments, commissions and other government agencies of the United States to furnish such information and render such assistance as may, in the judgment of the joint subcommittee, be deemed desirable, to appoint necessary experts, clerks and stenographers, and to do whatever is necessary for a full and comprehensive examination and study of the subject and report to Congress on or before the second Monday in January, nineteen hundred and seventeen."

While the lecture of Professor Cunningham has particular reference to Government Control of Railroads as administered by Prussia, it will be of much interest to all who attend. It will be given in the parish house and all men in town interested are cordially invited.

Canoe Club Dancing Party

Last Friday evening the Andover Canoe Club held an informal dancing party in the Town hall, which in point of numbers exceeded the wildest dreams of the committee and the Club officials. A splendid musical program was arranged by rear commodore Stanley A. Pratt who is also the leader of the Adelpi orchestra. The two hundred and twenty guests present attested the work of the efficient committee composed of James Nicoll, chairman and club treasurer, assisted by Percy Crosby, William Haddon, William Valentine, Frank Nicoll, George Bateson, John L. Dugan, and James P. Christie.

The party was given in benefit of the Pumps Canal Fund, necessary for the upkeep of the canal which has been so popular with the canoeists the last four seasons.

Gladstone's Post-Bag

When Gladstone was at Hawarden the post bag delivered there was immense and varied. His courteous and famous postcards encouraged correspondents to address him on all manner of subjects, and sometimes on none. His clever daughter, Mrs. Harry Drew, was accustomed to help him with his post-bag. Some part of it was generally addressed to herself, for she had distinguished correspondents, like John Ruskin, Lord Acton, George Wyndham and Burne Jones. A volume whose contents are mainly chosen from that correspondence is announced by Nisbet, "Gleanings from the Hawarden Postbag." It has been edited, not by Mrs. Drew, who probably did not attach importance to her letters, but by Miss Marsh Phillips.—London Observer.

Boston Ford Hall Meetings

The Ford Hall meetings in Boston will begin their season Sunday, November 5, the management having conducted this summer with considerable success a campaign for funds. Never before has the public been asked to help, for ample funds have been provided by the Boston Baptist Social Union through the bequest of Daniel Sharp Ford. The present emergency is due to the fact that the former Youth's Companion building is not yet rented so as to bring in so large an income as it formerly produced.

For the opening meeting the speaker is to be Rev. John Haynes Holmes of New York, who will discuss "The International Mind." November 12, Dr. James J. Walsh of New York will give his address on "The Happiest Era in Human History." November 19, Rev. William Norman Guthrie of New York will speak on "The Problem of a New American Patriotism." For the last Sunday of November the scheduled speaker is Roger W. Babson, and his topic "Labor's Only Hope."

Among other speakers for the season are Rev. Edward F. Sanderson, the new director of the People's Institute, New York; Richard A. Feiss of Cleveland, the well-known manufacturer; Marietta Johnson, founder and head of the School of Organic Education, Fairhope, Alabama; Professor Charles Zueblin, Miss Margaret Slattery, Sunday school worker and member of the Massachusetts Board of Education; Richard A. Hale, treasurer of the Old South Association; Hugh Black, the Scottish writer and preacher, now attached to Union Theological Seminary, New York; Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Ivy L. Lee, spokesmen of the railroad interests and a member of John D. Rockefeller's personal staff; Gerald Stanley Lee, the Seer of Northampton, and Winter Russell of New York.

The Ford Hall folks will again meet once in three weeks Sunday afternoons at Kingsley Hall, Ford building. Their first meeting comes Sunday afternoon, November 5, at three-thirty.

Death of "Old Prob"

Professor Cleveland Abbe, known as "The Father of the Weather Bureau," who has died at Chevy Chase, near Washington, after an illness of nearly a year, in his seventy-eighth year, was a noted meteorologist and had been connected with the United States Weather Bureau since 1891. Professor Abbe was familiarly known as "Old Prob" all over the country, as the result of the regular tri-daily issue of weather "probabilities," which he started in February, 1871. He probably was the foremost forecaster of the world and had received the Symonds gold medal of the Royal Meteorological Society of England and many other honors. He was a native of New York and was the son of the late George Waldo Abbe, prominent for many years in the business life of that city and active in its charities.

He was educated in the New York schools, studied astronomy at the University of Michigan and also at the observatory of Poul Kova, Russia.

Professor Abbe's forecasts were published all over the country as official documents, and earned for Professor Abbe the cognomen of "Old Prob." From that time the weather service was extended each year until the United States Weather Bureau came to rank first among such services the world over, and Professor Abbe came to be regarded as the world's foremost meteorologist. It was largely due to his initiative that several successive advances were made in the service, such as ocean meteorology, the introduction of uniform standard time, and a great many other steps were taken. Professor Abbe continued in the Government service even when past seventy years of age.

Some Interesting Teeth Statistics

A recent investigation made by the U. S. Public Health Service in connection with studies of rural school children showed that 49.3 per cent had defective teeth, 12.1 per cent had two or more missing teeth, and only 16.9 per cent had had dental attention. Over 14 per cent never used a tooth brush, 58.2 per cent used one occasionally and only 27.4 per cent used one daily. Defective teeth reduce physical efficiency. Dirty, suppurating, snaggle-toothed mouths are responsible for many cases of heart disease, rheumatism, and other chronic affections. The children are not responsible for the neglected state of their teeth. The ignorant and careless parent is to blame for this condition—a condition which hampers mental and physical growth and puts a permanent handicap on our future citizens. School teachers can and are doing much in inculcating habits of personal cleanliness on the rural school child but this will fail of the highest accomplishment unless parents co-operate heartily and continuously. This is a duty we owe our children.

All United for Hughes

"Republicans and Progressives are united for the election of Charles E. Hughes," declared Representative L. C. Dyer, of Missouri, former Commander-in-Chief of the United Spanish War Veterans.

"Many independent voters and many Democrats will vote for Mr. Hughes. The people want a return to the protective tariff policy of the Republican party. The Democratic party has tried to confuse the issues in this campaign, the greatest of which is the protective tariff."

"They have tried to frighten the voters. In one section they have sought votes by criticizing citizens of German descent. In another section they used the commonest subterfuges to get that vote. This is only one of their schemes, inventions, and subterfuges to retain the spoils of office. That is all the Democratic party has been and is interested in."

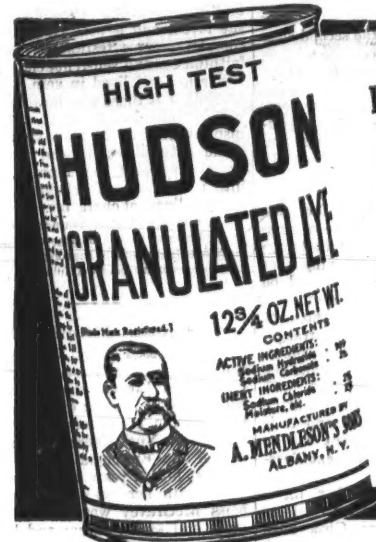

"The Democratic party has practically disrupted the Civil Service system of this country. They have put hundreds of men in office in violation of the civil service rules, and have substituted the spoils system instead of the efficiency system of Government service."

"Side issues, such as 'keeping the country out of war', the so-called 'eight-hour law' and other things the Democrats have tried to put forward to detract the attention of the people from their failure in managing the Government. They dare not mention the tariff and they have no word for efficiency and economy."

"The Wilson administration has been the most expensive administration in the history of the United States, and has accomplished less for the people. They have created places for hungry Democratic office seekers by the thousands, and have appropriated money with a lavish hand for so-called public improvements in the various States where they thought it would best help the Democrats to stay in power. There has never been such a hypocritical campaign conducted by any party."

"On November 7, the people of this country will condemn the Wilson administration for its hypocrisy, inefficiency, incompetency, and wastefulness, and will make possible the restoration of a Republican protective tariff."

It is vitally important that a Republican House and Senate be elected next Tuesday. If a Republican House and Senate are elected it will mean that there will be a majority of Republican members on the House Ways and Means Committee, and the Chairman of that Committee will be a Northern Republican. The present Chairman of the Committee, Representative Claude Kitchin of North Carolina, is a southerner. The Underwood tariff bill, framed by Kitchin, and the present committee, retained duties upon cotton goods, rice, tobacco.

FOR MAKING HARD SOAP

Use three pints of water with contents of one can of Lye. Stir well. The Lye will dissolve immediately and become quite hot. Allow it to cool. Melt six pounds of clean grease, tallow or lard until luke-warm; then pour the cold Lye into the melted grease gradually until thoroughly mixed and will drop from spoon with the consistency of honey. Continue to stir for about 10 minutes. It is then ready to pour into any desired mold.

THE CAN and the Label that tells HOW

MAKING soap at home is easy if you have the right kind of Lye and the right directions. The best Lye for soap making is Hudson, and the directions on the can of Hudson Lye are the most reliable and simplest. The work is easy—no special utensils are needed and you don't have to upset your kitchen. Soap made with is purer because it doesn't contain any adulterants or fillers like rosin. It is better because it contains more glycerine which largely comes from the fats you boil but which the soap factories extract.

Hudson Lye is the very best for every purpose for which Lye is used. Do not accept substitutes which may be inferior and worthless.

Hudson Lye meets the U. S. Government requirements for strength. Sold at all grocers and druggists. Big can 10c.

Held Hallowe'en Party

There was a large attendance at the Costume Hallowe'en party held in Good Templars' Hall on Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Ballardvale Village Improvement Society. There were forty couples in the grand march and some of the costumes were weird and caused considerable amusement. The first prize was awarded to Mrs. David Burns and the second prize to Miss Christine Geagan. The entertainment committee, Mrs. N. H. Harwood, chairman, was assisted by Mrs. David Burns, Mrs. William Clemens, John Haggerty, Joseph Stott and Miss Mary Geagan. On account of the hall being small, there were no children admitted. It is planned to entertain the Children's Auxiliary, a little later. Mrs. Vickery entertained the younger people present by telling them their fortunes. Light refreshments were served and games played and a general good time was enjoyed by all present.

OBITUARIES

ELIZABETH M. JOHNSON

Elizabeth Margaret Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren L. Johnson of Salem street, after more than two years of ill health, entered into rest on Sunday, October 29.

She was born in New Glasgow, Nova Scotia, November 11, 1892, and came to Andover with her parents four years later, when Mr. Johnson returned to his old home on Morton street. Elizabeth grew up here, attending the public schools until ready for Abbot Academy, from which institution she was graduated two years ago. Her parents have always been connected with the Baptist church in town, and she became a member of that church several years ago. She took great interest in the missionary cause, represented there by the Farther Lights Society; but her most devoted work was done as leader of the Primary Department of the Sunday School. Her love for children and her tact in winning and teaching them proved her adaptability for the work which she had chosen, had her life and health been spared.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon and the services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. William E. Lombard. Mrs. William T. Jackson sang two favorite hymns, "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Abide with Me". Burial was in the Spring Grove cemetery and the bearers were Ralph Ingram, Harold Veazie, Dana J. Lowd and Dudley Avery.

A Tribute

"I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith." Some such words as these of the great apostle are applicable to our young friend who has gone from us so recently—though she was far too unassuming and retiring to have wished them claimed for her. Sweet, sunny and unselfish to the last, this gentle soul gave up her plans and hopes for life in cheerful acquiescence to the will of Heaven, manifesting even under increasing weakness, a remarkable thoughtfulness for others.

Many hearts besides those of her bereaved family are sorrowing for her, and from teachers, little children whom she loved, and a wide circle of friends comes the same testimony: "Patience, faithfulness and self-renunciation."

She has not lived in vain. It is impossible that those who have known her well should have failed to catch some inspiration from her brave spirit, which, while naturally quiet and sweet, has, during the past few months, ripened into a wonderful development of faith and lovefulness of character.

"He who God's will has borne and done
And his own restless longings stilled—
What else he does, or has foregone,
His mission has been well fulfilled."

ELLEN McGRAVEY

There passed away, October 30, at the home of her niece, Rebecca McCollom on Lincoln street, Miss Ellen McGravey at the age of 85 years. She had lived a great many years of her life in New York where she was a member of the Episcopal church, but for the last fifteen years she had made her home with her niece where she died.

Miss McGravey was of an unusually quiet and kindly nature and her Bible and prayerbook were her constant guides. She was buried from her late home, Wednesday morning, and burial was in the Episcopal Cemetery, in the Darroct lot, the funeral services being conducted by the Rev. Mr. Henry.

DELIA MCCARTHY

Delia McCarthy, an old resident of Andover, died Tuesday morning at her home on North Main street. The funeral was held Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, a high requiem mass being celebrated at St. Augustine's church, by Rev. Fr. Frederic S. Biordan. At the offertory the choir sang "De Profundis." Interment was in St. Augustine's cemetery.

Entertained Mothers' Club

Miss Doward of Methuen entertained the Andover Mothers' Club at their meeting held in the R.C.O.A. club rooms Thursday afternoon, and the piano recital was greatly enjoyed by the members and also the Bradley Mothers' Club, which was the guest of the local organization. Miss Doward presented a varied program and gave a very skillful performance, concluding with the beautiful "Invitation to the Dance" by Weber.

The program:

Minuet	Handel
Alla Turca	Mozart
Hunting Song	Mendelssohn
Astrod
To the Spring	Torjussen
"One Sunny Day in Naples"	Branscombe
On to Plattsburg	Loose
Serenade	Sinding
Alla Tarantella	Mac Dowell
Shepherd's Dance, and Torch Dance	German
Salut d'Amour	Elgar
Invitation to the Dance	Weber

Tea and cake were served at the close of the recital. The next meeting will be held in the Punchard Hall on Thursday, November 16, and will be the annual reception to the superintendent of schools and the teachers.

READ ROGERS RECORD

After two years of service Congressman John Jacob Rogers came before the voters of the Fifth District in 1914 for endorsement or disapproval. He polled 17,249 votes to 9136 cast for his opponent. With four years of service his experience and his record make him today immeasurably stronger and more valuable to his district.

CHEAPER COAL AND HOUSEHOLD SUPPLIES.

Congressman Rogers has long believed that if the Merrimack River were made navigable from Lowell to the sea the cost of coal to consumers in Middlesex and Essex counties would be reduced 75 cents to $1.00 per ton and the cost to our households and local industries of many other essential commodities would be proportionately lowered. From the day he took office he has worked untiringly to bring about a navigable Merrimack. Largely as a result of his efforts the United States Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors last May recommended the improvement at a cost of some $10,000,000. Mr. Rogers pledges a continuance of his efforts in behalf of this great public development until the appropriation is made and river improvement an accomplished fact.

PREPAREDNESS.

Mr. Rogers was one of the earliest advocates in Congress and in the nation of an army and navy fully adequate for the defense, security and peace of the nation, and has played an important part in the measure of preparedness which has already been achieved. He believes also in industrial preparedness, and advocates the immediate passage of a tariff law which shall protect our American wage-earners from the competition of the cheap labor of Europe and Asia, which otherwise will overwhelm us at the close of the European war.

AMERICANISM

Mr. Rogers' position on Americanism has most recently been voiced by his speech in Congress on "America First." He was the author of a measure recently enacted which completely Americanizes our consular system. He stood and stands for the protection of American lives and rights at home and abroad. He is unalterably opposed to legislation of the sectional character which has marked the policy of the present administration.

LABOR

Mr. Rogers has been active in his support of humane legislation. Even before he went to Congress he secured the passage of a law extending vocational education for women. He is the sponsor of a plan for helping school graduates to suitable and promising business positions.

He has been one of the foremost champions in Congress for child labor legislation, and was the only representative to be called before the Committee on Labor at the hearing last spring in support of the child labor law recently passed. He voted to give an eight hour day to all women and children employed in the District of Columbia.

He voted to grant compensation to postal employees injured in the course of their duty and, in case of their death, pensioning their widows.

He voted to exclude convict made goods from interstate and foreign commerce. He voted for the anti-trust law. He voted to extend the wholesome activities of the Children's Bureau and the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor. He voted for the Workmen's Compensation Act for Federal employees.

POSTAL MATTERS

Mr. Rogers has been devoted to the improvement of postal efficiency—especially of rural free delivery efficiency—of his district. He has secured many extensions, and prevented many curtailments threatened by Postmaster General Burleson. He has secured favorable committee action on his proposal for a new Lowell Post Office to cost $350,000, and to replace the present outgrown structure. He has secured a Post Office for North Woburn. He has expedited the plans for the construction of the new building at Reading. He fought the selection of an unfit and undesired post office location at Andover. He has in many cases expedited relief to clerks and carriers injured in line of duty. He was instrumental in securing improved mail service for our soldiers at the Mexican border.

THE FARMER AND COUNTRY LIFE

Mr. Rogers has brought the service of the United States Department of Agriculture to the door of every one of his 200,000 constituents, whether residing in city or country. He has aided thousands to a practical solution of problems arising on their farms, in their gardens or in their homes.

PERSONAL CONTACT WITH CONSTITUENTS.

Mr. Rogers has always kept in immediate personal contact with his constituents. During recesses of Congress, in 1914 and 1915, he made comprehensive tours of his district, visiting every city, town and post office, and inviting by individual letter every constituent to call upon him for the transaction of official business of whatever kind.

ANNAPOLIS AND WEST POINT.

Every appointment by Mr. Rogers to Annapolis or West Point has been made as the result of a strictly competitive examination, held in his behalf by the U. S. Civil Service Commission.

EUROPEAN WAR

The terrible war in Europe has brought to Mr. Rogers many in need of relief and assistance. He has aided many of the stricken to leave Europe and come to this country; he has secured the release from European armies of many citizens of the United States. He has lent much assistance to the industries of this district whose business was adversely affected by war conditions. In all, he has rendered service in some 650 cases growing out of the European war.

PENSIONS.

Mr. Rogers has handled a large number of pension cases for deserving old soldiers or their families.

PAWTUCKET BRIDGE

Mr. Rogers secured in record time the passage of a special act of Congress authorizing the construction of a new bridge across the Merrimack river at Pawtucket Falls.

FISH.

Mr. Rogers has secured for the ponds of his district many millions of fish furnished for stocking purposes by the United States government.

ABSENTEE VOTING.

Mr. Rogers is author of the measure to permit absentee voting at all elections by those whose duties take them from their homes on election day, and who are at present virtually disfranchised.

FINANCIAL AFFAIRS.

Mr. Rogers secured the passage by Congress of a law giving interest upon funds of insolvent national banks, thus directly aiding those who are unfortunate enough to have funds in a bank which goes into the hands of a receiver. He has exerted himself in behalf of the depositors of the Traders National Bank of Lowell, who have already received 80 per cent. of their deposits, and has assured them that another 10 per cent. will soon be forthcoming.

STANDING IN CONGRESS.

Mr. Rogers is a member of the extremely important Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives. He is ranking Republican member of a Committee on Elections, and will presumably be chairman of that committee if the next House is Republican and he is a member. His speeches in Congress have attracted marked attention and several of them have had a nation-wide circulation. Among them are: "Out-Herding Herod"—a plea for the abolition of child labor; "The War and the Tariff"—showing the stimulus war has given to our industries, and how, if the Underwood tariff is not repealed, our present prosperity will vanish in a night when the war ends; several important speeches on the diplomatic issues of the day, notably a demand for the stoppage of our trade with Mexico in rifles and dum-dum bullets which are later used by the Mexicans against our own soldiers and civilians.

THE FLAG.

After a fight in which the press of the entire nation took part, Mr. Rogers succeeded in preventing Secretary Daniels of the Navy from carrying out his plan to buy in Europe hunting for the Stars and Stripes, therefore always made in Lowell.

MEN OF THE DISTRICT, ROGERS HAS ABLY AND FAITHFULLY SERVED YOU.

It would be well also for all voters to see that their names appear on the check lists which are also posted in front of the town house. The voting begins at 6 a.m. Tuesday, and vote counting will begin after the first fifty have been cast, so that an early return seems likely.

The election officers who will have charge at the polls at Precinct 1, are as follows: Warden, William B. Cheever; deputy warden, Ira B. Hill; clerk, Daniel A. Collins; deputy clerk, Mark M. Keane; inspectors, Charles A. Hill, William J. Doherty; deputy inspectors, Timothy J. Mahoney, J. Frank Morse; counters, Patrick J. Dwane, Michael Welch, David C. Leslie, James R. Mosher; tellers, George L. Averill, Jeremiah O'Connor.

SAN FELICE CIGARS

FIVE CENTS STRAIGHT AND WORTH IT!

Owing to the greatly increased cost of quality tobacco, in fact everything pertaining to high grade cigars, the makers of the San Felice cigar, The Dezel-Wenmer Company, have advanced the selling price to the jobbers and dealers, and hence forth this cigar will positively be sold to the consumer at 5 cents straight instead of six for a quarter as previously.

The SAN FELICE is national in its scope and character, having justly attained this eminence through its unexcelled excellence. To maintain this unequalled standard of quality, the advance in question is absolutely unavoidable. The generous support of all men using quality cigars is earnestly desired.
